New Delhi: Bharti Airtel is in talks with new and traditional telecom gear makers to finalise equipment and network contracts for fifth generation mobile (5G) services, a senior company executive has said. The carrier is developing a full 5G ecosystem using open radio networks that can support interoperability between different vendors' equipment to ensure flexibility in choosing gear vendors for its upcoming high-speed network. "We are discussing with vendors about 5G contracts; we haven't closed anything," Randeep Sekhon, chief technology officer, Bharti Airtel, told ET. "We are not just doing traditional vendors but are also doing O-Ran (open radio access networks, or Open Ran). We are developing a full ecosystem in O-Ran so that we can have alternatives," he said. "It is off-the-shelf kind of a technology." Airtel is working with Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) and US firm Mavenir to deploy Open Ran-based 5G networks and a trial is already underway in Punjab with Mavenir.

Canadian alternative investment firm Brookfield has agreed to acquire a 51% stake in four commercial properties from billionaire Sunil Mittal-led Bharti Enterprises at an enterprise value of Rs 5,000 crore ($657 million).

Bharti Enterprises, the holding company of Mittal's businesses that also includes telecom operator Bharti Airtel Ltd, will retain a 49% interest in the properties that total 3.3 million square feet.

TD

The properties are Worldmark Aerocity in Delhi, Worldmark 65 and Airtel Center in Gurgaon, and Pavillion Mall in the north Indian city of Ludhiana, the companies said Friday. Brookfield Properties, the real estate operating arm of Brookfield Asset Management Inc, will manage the assets.

Bharti Realty, the real estate arm of Bharti Enterprises, will continue to own and operate its remaining commercial assets, which includes about 10 million sq ft of projects in Delhi Aerocity.

Brookfield has emerged one of the most active investors in India's real estate sectors in recent years, competing with the likes of compatriot Canada Pension Plan Investment Board and US-based buyout giant Blackstone.

In India, Brookfield owns and operates 47 million sq ft of commercial real estate assets in six cities—Delhi-NCR, Mumbai, Bengaluru, Chennai, Pune and Kolkata.

Ankur Gupta, Brookfield's country head for India, said the firm sees "tremendous opportunities" for "well-managed" commercial real estate properties.

Brookfield's other recent deals in India's real estate sector include an investment of Rs 1,000 crore in Hyderabad-based residential developer INDIS in November last year and selling an office park in December to a publicly listed real estate investment trust it controls as well as investing some money in the REIT to help it buy the property.

Bharti Airtel Ltd., India's largest wireless telecom services provider by active users, is planning to cash in on the metaverse by leveraging its upcoming fifth-generation radio waves (5G) network, according to local media reports.

Fast facts

Airtel is seeking partnerships with content providers as it believes its upcoming 5G network will provide the necessary bandwidth required to process the metaverse's cloud computing needs.

Airtel's interest in the metaverse may help grow its user base, especially among the young, as they explore virtual reality (VR), augmented reality (AR) and blockchain technologies.

As a technology demonstration, Airtel created an in-stadium experience of former Indian Cricket Team captain Kapil Dev's legendary 175-run innings from the 1983 Cricket World Cup. This proof-of-point technology demonstration helped recreate the historic match as no actual recordings exist owing to a workers' strike at the BBC.

Bharti Airtel (Bharti) organised an analyst day on 25th Mar'22 to outline its growth plans and opportunities. It remains confident of sustaining strong revenue growth in mobile business and anticipates acceleration in non-mobile revenue growth in coming years. Digital business remains core for growth across both consumer and enterprise segments. Consumer business will benefit from rising adoption of digital properties by mobile users, which Bharti can monetise through ads and cross-selling. Also, enterprise segment looks more solid with CPaaS, data centre, IoT, and security & cloud. Bharti plans to achieve stronger growth in the payment bank business. We come convinced that 5G capex will have limited upside risk. Company plans monetisation of its payment bank and data centre businesses in the future, while digital and other businesses may remain under the Bharti Airtel umbrella.

Big picture. Bharti sees revenue growth to be driven by mobile / non-mobile businesses where it expects growth to accelerate / remain steady. Growth in mobile revenue is well captured in consensus: the big takeaway is company is aiming for another 2-3 tariff hikes apart from premiumisation. Non-mobile business is under-appreciated by consensus despite company belief that fixed broadband customer-base will expand significantly over the next three years, emerging categories in enterprise growing faster and digital & payment bank have just arrived. Bharti is staring at large FCF generation and reduction in 5G capex upside risk. To summarise, the company expects revenue growth momentum to continue in mobile, and accelerate in enterprise and digital (including payment bank), while capex to remain stable. Further, it plans to monetise data centre and payment bank businesses in the future, which should help unlock some value.

Strategy – quality and experience. Bharti's strategy is built on two pillars: quality of customers, and brilliant experience. Company has changed its customer segmentation. Customers were earlier segregated separately for each business. But, now all customers are pooled across consumer businesses and one customer lifecycle management is applicable and omni channel experience on distribution. Bharti has significantly increased its investment in building infrastructure and enhancing digital analytical tools. Customer complaints have declined by 40% in absolute terms despite rise in sub base.

Mobile business – tariff hike + premiumisation. Bharti expects mobile revenue growth to continue on the back of more tariff hikes and four layers for premiumisation. It is looking at 2-3 more tariff hikes in the next 2-3 years as existing tariffs deliver RoCE < CoE. Four layers of premiumisation are: 1) subs upgrading to smartphone, and signing up data services on 4G; 2) adding ARPU from digital engagements such as payment bank, wynk music, xstream, Airtel Thanks and others; 3) upgrades to postpaid and use of converged services such as fibre and entertainment; and 4) Airtel Black. Bharti estimates to generate 20% RoCE at ARPU of US$3.3 (Rs250).

Non-mobile business is under-appreciated by consensus. 1) Bharti expects its fixed broadband subs to grow to 40mn in CY25 from 27mn in CY22 (14% CAGR). Each sub will come with ARPU of Rs650 in a market where Bharti's subs market share is improving. Bharti is planning to expand its home pass from 16mn currently to 40mn in next three years; 2) within enterprise, emerging categories account for Rs363bn in revenue, and are anticipated to grow at a CAGR of 25% to Rs703bn over FY22E-FY25E. Bharti expects to grab good revenue market share in emerging categories. It has strong propositions for CPaaS, ad-tech, cloud and security, and digital marketplace. It is expanding its data centre footprint 2.5x with investment of Rs50bn; and 3) the payment bank business has profitably scaled up with focus on three segments, viz. digital, unbanked rural, and institutions.

5G capex upside risk reducing. Our interaction with Bharti CTO suggests that there is not much upside risk from 5G capex. Company plans NSA 5G with likely 1800MHz (uplink) and 3500MHz (downlink) as base bands. The coverage on this configuration should help achieve existing L1800 (4G) coverage. Thus, we don't see requirement of more tower rollouts; NSA 5G network rollout will largely be loading on existing towers. In 4G, the company had spectrum in four bands and three sectors implying 12 radios on each tower. In 5G, it would be single band and three sectors; thus there would be only three 5G additional radios per tower.

India mobile business – Enough levers for ARPU growth through more tariff hikes and premiumisation * Bharti has four layers of premiumisation: 1) subs upgrading to smartphone, and signing up data services on 4G; 2) adding ARPU from digital engagements such as payment bank, wynk music, xstream, Airtel Thanks and others; 3) upgrades to postpaid, and use of converged services such as fibre and entertainment; and 4) Airtel Black.

* India has 550mn smartphone (unique) subscribers and 350mn featurephones. Bharti estimates 200mn featurephone subs upgrading to smartphone over next four years (40mn upgrades/year). These subs would sign for 4G services, which should drive ARPU growth.

* India postpaid subscriber contribution has remained at 4% since FY19. However, Bharti has reported strong net adds in past few quarters. It sees postpaid subs addition to grow well henceforth; pre-RJio launch, postpaid sub-base was growing at 8% p.a.

* The ARPU in postpaid has traditionally been at 2x prepaid, which increased to 3x at peak of competitive intensity post RJio launch. It is now at 1.7x, which Bharti believes should aid subs growth. In past three years, Bharti has not significantly increased postpaid tariffs while prepaid tariffs have gone up sharply. However, going forward, Bharti expects to keep its ARPU ratio at 1.7x. This implies postpaid tariff may see similar price increase as prepaid in future.

* Bharti's digital services has seen significant penetration among its 4G sub-base. It has a total of 184mn digital users (MAU) (vs 4G subs at >190mn). Thus it has been able to see at least one digital property being used by each of its 4G subs on MAU basis. This is a commendable achievement. Increase in digital sub base would help Bharti to more effectively monetise these subs through Airtel Ads and cross-selling other entertainment products.

* Bharti anticipates another 2-3 tariff hikes in mobile services over next 2-3 years. It sees India ARPUs presently not supportive of respectable RoCE. It has reiterated reaching its ARPU target of Rs200 soon, and in the longer run sees an ARPU of Rs300.

5G readiness – company remain confident on 5G rollout

- * Bharti is ready with each of the three infrastructures required for 5G rollout: front haul, back haul, and core. It expects NSA (non-standalone) 5G network rollout adopted, which will utilise 4G infrastructure for uplink and core.
- * Company anticipate NSA 5G helping achieve 5G coverage with limited investments. Further, 5G will require fewer equipment on towers (vs 4G), which should help lower overall network capex.
- * Example of coverage: A combination of 4G, say on 1800MHz (uplink) and 3500MHz (downlink), should give 5G experience with similar coverage as 4G on 1800MHz. It does not require any additional tower rollout.
- * Example of capex: 4G was rolled out on multiple spectrum bands 900, 1800, 2100 and 2300MHz spectrum which required independent equipment for each spectrum band. Thus total equipment mounted on towers was 4 spectrum bands multiplied by
- * 3 sectors equalling 12 radios. These equipment radiate 50-75MHz of spectrum. In 5G, a single band of 60-100MHz will used, thus total equipment per tower is 1 band multiplied by 3 sectors equalling 3 radios.
- * In future, Bharti can use its existing 4G radio to refarm spectrum to 5G with minimal capex.
- * Bharti said, on like to like basis, speeds on 5G are 15% higher than 4G; however, higher spectrum quantity makes 5G generate large data throughput.
- * 5G equipment weight has significantly reduced to 15kg from earlier 27kg. This is important for tower reinforcement capex (which may increase only modestly now) for tower companies. The loading pricing (charged by tower company) may not now see significant rise.
- * Bharti will also deploy lean towers to fill coverage blind areas.
- * For back haul, the company doesn't see any bottleneck to launch 5G. It has sharply increased its tower with fibre back haul; traditional microwave has also seen good technological advancement.
- * Bharti's core is already 5G-ready.

- * Home services – Industry fixed broadband customer base at 40mn by CY25E
- * Fixed broadband sub base was at 18mn for many years, but has started growing since FY21 and reached 27mn by end-CY22. Bharti anticipates this sub base to grow to 40mn by CY25.
- * Bharti opined that fixed broadband market would comprise two large players. These services would come with incremental revenue of Rs650 per sub per month.
- * Bharti plans to expand its LCO partnership model aggressively to improve GTM. Its digital onboarding of LCOs take less than 10 minutes with real-time tracking of inventory and zero error payout for partners.
- * Bharti plans to expand its FTTH home pass to 40mn in next three years from 16mn currently.

- * Enterprise segment remains very exciting with rising opportunity, which would help drive faster revenue growth in non-mobile revenue for Bharti.

* Bharti expects connectivity business to grow marginally from Rs267bn in CY22 to Rs277bn in CY25 and emerging categories to grow to Rs703bn in CY25 from Rs363bn in CY22. The contribution of emerging categories will rise to 72% (vs 58% in CY22) of India industry enterprise revenue.

* EBIT margin for many products are anticipated to be lower than data business, but we believe RoCE would be higher due to lower capex requirement.

* Bharti's addressable market was Rs630bn with emerging markets at Rs360bn. The key products in emerging categories are CPaaS, data centre, security, cloud, IoT and NaaS.

* Bharti remains confident of grabbing respectable market share in emerging categories as well.

* Company's enterprise revenue has grown 11% YoY in 9MFY22 – while excluding voice it has grown at 18%. Its solutions business is growing at >50% CAGR in past few years on low base.

Digital services – Bharti is gung-go on digital opportunity

* Bharti has six key digital products and services: 1) CPaaS under brand Airtel iQ; 2) data centre housed in subsidiary nxtra; 3) security & cloud, which are offered in collaboration with global partners; 4) ad tech for digital marketing within Airtel digital properties; 5) payment bank; and 6) digital marketplace.

* CPaaS: Bharti remains excited about the opportunity in CPaaS, and believes telcos have good right to win in the segment. It has already onboarded >185 enterprises including Swiggy and HDFC Bank. CPaaS is expected to grow at a CAGR 36% to Rs200bn over FY22E-FY25E.

* Security and Cloud: This is a partnership-based service where Bharti has marquee partnership with Cisco, Palo Alto, etc. It has onboarded >230 enterprises. The market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 26% over FY22E-FY25E and likely have an addressable market of Rs310bn by FY25E.

* Data centre: Bharti has data centre capacity of 130MW and is in the process of expanding to 400MW with investment of Rs50bn. It would plan to build seven large data centres in various metros / capitals in India. Bharti works with hyper scaler for data centres. India data centre revenue is estimated to grow at a CAGR of 22% to Rs140bn over FY22E-FY25E.

* Ad tech: Bharti has active sub base of 184mn MAU on its digital properties, and has built ad tech to supply its own inventory. It has >135 brands already advertising.

Payment bank – High possibility of listing

* Bharti is very optimistic on the payment bank opportunity. It is the only payment bank that has profitably scaled up, and is now ready to expand aggressively.

* It serves three broad customer groups: 1) unbanked rural people in tier-3 and smaller towns and villages; 2) digital users – growing digital transactions; and 3) micro cash players where it helps business partners digitise small-ticket cash transactions.

* Airtel Payment Bank revenue is split in the ratio of 40%, 30% and 30% for institutional space, unbanked banking and digital banking. It has seen the share of transaction-based revenue dropping with interest income (Rs10bn deposit) and fee-based revenue growing faster.

* Airtel Payment Bank is uniquely positioned as the only profitable multi-segment fintech company that has built a scalable business model.

* Bharti believes its payment bank is among the businesses it would look to monetise / list separately in future.

Bharti Airtel may monetise its tower, payments bank, data centre and fibre assets, among others, the telecom company has told analysts. India's second largest carrier added that it may further increase its stake in tower company Indus Towers, if needed to provide stability to the company, before monetising its stake. "The management indicated it will look to monetise its stake in - (1) Indus Towers, (2) Airtel Payments Bank, (3) NXTRA, (4) fibre assets and (4) Robi Axiata.

The company may also look to monetise its other digital assets of-(1) Airtel Ads, (2) Airtel IQ, (3) digital marketplace and (4) security and cloud solutions," brokerage Kotak Institutional Equities said in a report. For the time being, Airtel said that it will increase its stake in Indus Towers by 4.7%-that it will buy from UK's Vodafone Group-to 46.4% at an overall cost of 2,388.1 crore to enable a stable shareholding structure for Indus, given the strategic importance of towers for a telco. "The company may further increase stake in Indus Towers, if needed to provide stability to the company, before monetising its stake," Kotak added. The Sunil Mittal-led carrier told analysts that it will initially roll out 5G on sites with high 5G handset penetration and increasing 4G congestion, which will lead to steady capex over the next three-four years, even with the 5G roll out. It pegged capex at around $3 billion over the next two years. The operator though is ready for accelerated 5G roll outs, if competition demands. Edelweiss analysts, who attended the Airtel analyst call, said that there can be lumpiness due to timing and pace of the roll out, leading to higher capex in a year and lower in others even though the telco's management is guiding for steady capex. "We have seen market share aspirations leveraging new technology driving capex. Hence, we believe, although Bharti is well prepared, accelerated 5G capex impacting the balance sheet cannot be ruled out." Ready for accelerated 5G rollout Airtel's management highlighted that the network was 5G ready and had already conducted successful 5G field trials. The late introduction of 5G ensured cost and efficiency benefits for Indian telcos, Airtel told analysts. The carrier, as per analysts, expects 5G roll out on mid-band (3.3-3.6GHz) and mmWave band (26GHz) spectrum providing 5G speeds and capacity with existing 4G network providing coverage. It expects 5G spectrum auctions in May-June this year, but a gradual roll out given limited handset readiness. Only 25% of shipments are currently of 5G handsets and installed base penetration will be around 15% by FY23 end and around 25% by FY24 end. Bharti Airtel also informed analysts that it was working on several enterprise use cases including drone-based smart inventory, anomaly detection, connected ambulances, surveillance and port solutions. The telco reiterated the need for efficiently priced spectrum, indicating the industry is unlikely to move forth on airwaves that is not economically viable. Airtel also told analysts that it sees massive opportunity in the feature phone to smartphone upgradation and expects to further accelerate its 4G net additions in the country. The Sunil Mittal-led telco expects 200 million upgrades by FY26 with 40 million upgrades each year, as per its analyst presentation. The telco is also aiming for over 40 million home broadband customers by 2025, up from 27 million in 2022 leveraging the local cable operator model in the country.

HD We are strengthening Airtel Ads by investing in blockchain capabilities: Gopal Vittal

Gopal Vittal, Bharti Airtel MD & CEO India & South Asia, shares how the telecom giant is planning to use its digital marketplace capabilities to reach out to more customers.

With the growing digital penetration in India, telecom giant Bharti Airtel is bullish about its ad-tech platform Airtel Ads which has already onboarded 135+ brands. To bolster the platform, the telco is investing in blockchain capabilities and developing solutions that are compliant with potential regulations around privacy.

"Airtel ads is our AdTech platform that leverages all our digital assets. We have 135 plus brands and relationships with all large agencies. The solution here is a consent-based privacy-safe platform that serves one of the biggest pools of quality customers across multiple screens. We are further strengthening this platform by investing in blockchain capabilities and developing solutions that address privacy issues and potential regulations around them," Bharti Airtel MD & CEO India & South Asia Gopal Vittal said while speaking to analysts during the Q3 earnings call.

The company has acquired a strategic stake in Aqilliz – a Blockchain as a Service Company under the Airtel Startup Accelerator Program, subject to applicable statutory approvals. Airtel aims to deploy Aqilliz's advanced blockchain technologies at scale across its Adtech (Airtel Ads), Digital Entertainment (Wynk Music & Airtel Xstream), and Digital Marketplace (Airtel Thanks App) offerings.

Speaking about the DTH business, Vittal said that the company has a presence in 18 million homes with an Average Revenue Per User (ARPU) of Rs 146. Airtel Digital TV has recently changed the set-top box (STB) pricing and reduced channel commissions. "These are expected to move the industry towards a more sensible business model by lowering the gross additions in the category while focusing on net additions."

He also pointed out that DD Free Dish continues to disrupt the business model as good content continues to be offered for free in vast waves of the country. The Airtel India chief also sees a huge opportunity in converting cable subscribers to DTH and monetising over-the-top (OTT) content.

"The irony is that the opportunity to convert and upgrade from cable is massive. There is also a huge opportunity to monetize OTT content and deliver a unified connected experience through Airtel Xtreme. To address this we have developed a compelling proposition for customers," he stated.

DD Free Dish, he said, is a structural issue for the pay-TV sector. He also stated that the Prasar Bharati-owned free DTH platform has huge penetration in markets like Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, and Gujarat. The DTH operators have taken up the issue of making pay content available on the DD Free Dish platform. As reported earlier, the broadcasters have pulled out their Hindi GECs from DD Free Dish.

"We have taken this up with the broadcasters. We have also talked to the regulator to see how we can deal with it," Vittal said. He also stated that cord-cutting is largely an urban phenomenon. He also pointed out that cord-cutting requires subscribers to pay a substantial subscription. "Netflix is at Rs 299 a month. Amazon is at Rs 1499 a year, so these are not particularly and the subscriptions that they have are not large enough to meaningfully displace the opportunity on linear."

Airtel is planning to use its digital marketplace capabilities to monetise OTT subscriptions. He also claimed that Airtel is seeing rapid growth in terms of OTT subscriptions on the large screen. "So we have dramatically improved the payments experience. Today you get a QR code on the screen you can just flash it pay for it and get on to subscription," Vittal added.

On the implementation of New Tariff Order (NTO) 2.0, Vittal said that the hike by pay broadcasters will get passed on to the customers. He also pointed out that the DTH operators have not been able to increase subscription prices for the last two years.

"I think that you know we will wait to hear what happens on NTO2 and I sense that there will be some price increase that the broadcasters will also look for and that obviously will then get passed on to customers. We have not seen any price increase in DTH now for two years. So it has been a long time, there has been no price increase," Vittal averred.

0624 GMT - Singtel unit NCS's purchase of Australian digital-services provider ARQ Group for A$290 million shouldn't affect the telco's dividend payout, CGS-CIMB says. "While Singtel continues to undertake these investments in ICT, data center and digital banking to drive future earnings growth, it is also carrying out asset recycling initiatives to fund them" which includes the recent non-core asset sale of a 1.6% stake in Airtel Africa, the brokerage says. The net cash proceeds raised should mean Singtel can "comfortably sustain a 75% dividend payout ratio" even after the acquisition, it reckons. CGS-CIMB keeps an add rating and S$3.30 target price on the stock, which falls 1.1% to S$2.62. (yongchang.chin@wsj.com)

STAKE CALL Telco ready to further increase holding in Indus Towers to provide stability to co

New Delhi: Bharti Airtel may monetise its tower, payments bank, data centre and fibre assets, among others, the telecom company has told analysts. India's second largest carrier added that it may further increase its stake in tower company Indus Towers, if needed to provide stability to the company, before monetising its stake.

"The management indicated it will look to monetise its stake in - (1) Indus Towers, (2) Airtel Payments Bank, (3) NXTRA, (4) fibre assets and (4) Robi Axiata. The company may also look to monetise its other digital assets of-(1) Airtel Ads, (2) Airtel IQ, (3) digital marketplace and (4) security and cloud solutions," brokerage Kotak Institutional Equities said in a report.

For the time being, Airtel said that it will increase its stake in Indus Towers by 4.7%-that it will buy from UK's Vodafone Group-to 46.4% at an overall cost of `2,388.1 crore to enable a stable shareholding structure for Indus, given the strategic importance of towers for a telco. "The company may further increase stake in Indus Towers, if needed to provide stability to the company, before monetising its stake," Kotak added.

The Sunil Mittal-led carrier told analysts that it will initially roll out 5G on sites with high 5G handset penetration and increasing 4G congestion, which will lead to steady capex over the next three-four years, even with the 5G roll out. It pegged capex at around $3 billion over the next two years. The operator though is ready for accelerated 5G roll outs, if competition demands.

Edelweiss analysts, who attended the Airtel analyst call, said that there can be lumpiness due to timing and pace of the roll out, leading to higher capex in a year and lower in others even though the telco's management is guiding for steady capex. "We have seen market share aspirations leveraging new technology driving capex. Hence, we believe, although Bharti is well prepared, accelerated 5G capex impacting the balance sheet cannot be ruled out ."READY FOR ACCELERATED 5G ROLLOUT

Airtel's management highlighted that the network was 5G ready and had already conducted successful 5G field trials. The late introduction of 5G ensured cost and efficiency benefits for Indian telcos, Airtel told analysts.

The carrier, as per analysts, expects 5G roll out on mid-band (3.3-3.6GHz) and mmWave band (26GHz) spectrum providing 5G speeds and capacity with existing 4G network providing coverage. It expects 5G spectrum auctions in May-June this year, but a gradual roll out given limited handset readiness. Only 25% of shipments are currently of 5G handsets and installed base penetration will be around 15% by FY23 end and around 25% by FY24 end.

Bharti Airtel also informed analysts that it was working on several enterprise use cases including drone-based smart inventory, anomaly detection, connected ambulances, surveillance and port solutions. The telco reiterated the need for efficiently priced spectrum, indicating the industry is unlikely to move forth on airwaves that is not economically viable. Airtel also told analysts that it sees massive opportunity in the feature phone to smartphone upgradation and expects to further accelerate its 4G net additions in the country. The Sunil Mittal-led telco expects 200 million upgrades by FY26 with 40 million upgrades each year, as per its analyst presentation.

Thetelco is also aiming for over 40 million home broadband customers by 2025, up from 27 million in 2022 leveraging the local cable operator model in the country.

CLEAR-CUT PLANS Co to hike stake in Indus Towers if needed to provide it stability before monetisation

New Delhi: Bharti Airtel may monetise its tower, payments bank, data centre and fibre assets, among others, the telecom company has told analysts. India's second largest carrier added that it may further increase its stake in tower company Indus Towers, if needed to provide stability to the company, before monetising its stake.

"The management indicated it will look to monetise its stake in - (1) Indus Towers, (2) Airtel Payments Bank, (3) NXTRA, (4) fibre assets and (4) Robi Axiata. The company may also look to monetise its other digital assets of (1) Airtel Ads, (2) Airtel IQ, (3) digital marketplace and (4) security and cloud solutions," brokerage Kotak Institutional Equities said in a report.

For the time being, Airtel said that it will increase its stake in Indus Towers by 4.7% - that it will buy from UK's Vodafone Group - to 46.4% at an overall cost of ₹2,388.1 crore to enable a stable shareholding structure for Indus, given the strategic importance of towers for a telco.

"The company may further increase stake in Indus Towers, if needed to provide stability to the company, before monetising its stake," Kotak added.

The Sunil Mittal-led carrier told analysts that it will initially roll out 5G on sites with high 5G handset penetration and increasing 4G congestion, which will lead to steady capex over the next three-four years, even with the 5G rollout. It pegged capex at around $3 billion over the next two years. The operator though is ready for accelerated 5G rollouts, if competition demands.

Edelweiss analysts, who attended the Airtel analyst call, said that there can be lumpiness due to timing and pace of the rollout, leading to higher capex in a year and lower in others even though the telco's management is guiding for steady capex. "We have seen market share aspirations leveraging new technology driving capex. Hence, we believe, although Bharti is well prepared, accelerated 5G capex impacting the balance sheet cannot be ruled out."

Airtel's management highlighted that the network was 5G ready and had already conducted successful 5G field trials. The late introduction of 5G ensured cost and efficiency benefits for Indian telcos, Airtel told analysts.

The carrier, as per analysts, expects 5G rollout on mid-band (3.3-3.6GHz) and mmWave band (26GHz) spectrum providing 5G speeds and capacity with existing 4G network providing coverage. It expects 5G spectrum auctions in May-June this year, but a gradual rollout given limited handset readiness. Only 25% of shipments are currently of 5G handsets and installed base penetration will be around 15% by FY23 end and around 25% by FY24 end.

Bharti Airtel is looking at two-three rounds of fresh tariff hikes in the coming years to attain its targeted Arpu (average revenue per user) of `300. However, any move to increase rates will depend on Reliance Jio following suit. The company also plans to continue with its annual capex of around `20,000-21,000 crore over the next two-three years as it rolls out its 5G network.

The company shared the details of its plans with analysts on March 25.

TD

The Arpu of Bharti Airtel has risen from Rs 117 in Q3FY20 to Rs 163 in Q3FY22. Apart from tariff hikes, Arpu can be inflated through feature phones upgrades and monetisation of digital engagement.

Over the past two quarters, the company has done several tariff hikes to improve Arpu. It had increased tariffs on certain postpaid plans across retail and enterprise segments during Q2FY22, while in November 2021 it increased the prepaid tariffs across all price points by 20-25%, including unlimited plans as well as combo vouchers.

After the Q3FY22 results, Gopal Vittal, MD and CEO, India and South Asia, had said the company hopes to achieve Arpu of Rs 200, preferably in 2022 itself, and then settle soon after in the next few years to Rs 300. "From my perspective, I do expect a tariff hike sometime in 2022, don't think it's going to happen in the next 3-4 months simply because of the SIM consolidation and growth needs to come back, but I do expect another round of tariff increases. Of course, it ought to be determined by the competitive dynamics and by what happens to the other players, but we would not hesitate to lead it as we have done in the recent past," Vittal had said.

The company reiterated its focus on quality subscribers by offering good experience. The company said a 40% reduction in network complaints over the past two years reflects its efforts to improve experience.

"It did not view affordability as a constraint for smartphone customers and is willing to lead future tariff hikes subject to Jio also following suit. Omnichannel experience with converged offerings, digital propositions (Xstream, payments bank and Wynn, etc) and an aspirational brand positioning along with network investments have enabled Airtel to gain premium customers — Airtel's share of 4G net adds has grown in the past 3 years (32% in FY20 to 70% in 1H FY22)," Credit Suisse said in a report.

Bharti Airtel is also looking to leverage its digital offerings to improve experience and cut costs. In the wired broadband segment, it targets 40 million customers by FY25 from the current 16 million.

Bharti Airtel also informed analysts that it was working on several enterprise use cases including drone-based smart inventory, anomaly detection, connected ambulances, surveillance and port solutions. The telco reiterated the need for efficiently priced spectrum, indicating the industry is unlikely to move forth on airwaves that is not economically viable. Airtel also told analysts that it sees massive opportunity in the feature phone to smartphone upgradation and expects to further accelerate its 4G net additions in the country. The Sunil Mittal-led telco expects 200 million upgrades by FY26 with 40 million upgrades each year, as per its analyst presentation. The telco is also aiming for over 40 million home broadband customers by 2025, up from 27 million in 2022 leveraging the local cable operator model in the country.

Helios Towers and Airtel Africa have also entered into a 12-year service agreement on the acquired assets, which, in-line with prior communications, are expected to deliver revenues of USD 23m and Adjusted EBITDA of USD 8m in the first full year of ownership, with further growth anticipated through 60 committed build to suits over the next three years and colocation lease-up.

Helios Towers is an independent telecommunications infrastructure company, having established one of the most extensive tower portfolios across Africa.

It builds, owns and operates telecom passive infrastructure, providing services to mobile network operators.

Helios Towers owns and operates telecommunication tower sites in Tanzania, Democratic Republic of Congo, Congo Brazzaville, Ghana, South Africa, Senegal, Madagascar and Malawi.

Following recent acquisition agreements and subject to regulatory approval, Helios Towers expects to establish a presence in two new markets across Africa and the Middle-East.

Including these acquisitions and committed BTS, the group's total site count is expected to increase from over 10,000 towers to over 14,000.

Helios Towers pioneered the model in Africa of buying towers that were held by single operators and providing services utilising the tower infrastructure to the seller and other operators.

Telecommunications firm Airtel Africa has stopped investing in tower infrastructure in Kenya and other markets in the continent, with the company intending to sell most of its existing assets.

The company's strategy of reducing ownership of infrastructure in favour of leasing has been disclosed by the International Finance Corporation (IFC) which is funding the multinational telecoms operator.

"Airtel Africa is focusing on an asset-light business model and has divested most of its telecommunications tower portfolio and is in the final stages of divesting the majority of its remaining tower portfolio to tower companies," IFC said in its investment disclosures.

"Airtel Africa currently maintains a limited number of strategic tower sites (approximately 2,500) across its business, and presently has no foreseeable plans to materially expand its owned towers portfolio."

IFC said that Airtel currently engages independent telecommunications tower companies to expand its network on two models.

One is by leasing space on their existing infrastructure. The second one is by contracting them to erect towers specific to Airtel's network coverage needs and in which case the telco becomes the "anchor tenant."

IFC is also funding a new entrant in the Kenyan telecommunications towers business and which is targeting Airtel, Safaricom #ticker:SCOM and Telkom Kenya with 4G infrastructure.

Atlas Tower Kenya is investing $48.9 million (Sh5.6 billion) to install the 4G towers.

The telcos are in a race to cover most of the country with the fourth generation (4G) broadband cellular technology to attract and retain subscribers using smartphones.

Atlas, owned by Kalahari Capital LLC and Adrian Group Limited, will fund part of the investment using loans from IFC.

Mobile network operators are increasingly moving to lease towers from independent providers who can serve multiple clients, allowing the telcos to cut costs and focus on acquiring and serving subscribers with various services.

The Kenyan mobile network operators started building their own towers and other infrastructure, a strategy that has seen each firm spend billions of shillings annually on upgrades and maintenance.

The telcos are now seeking to share infrastructure built by independent parties, helping to cut their capital expenditure.

Safaricom, the market leader which has invested the most in building its own infrastructure, in 2020 announced it was looking to lease towers from other parties.

Telkom Kenya has also sold some of its towers in recent years, signalling the shift to shared infrastructure.

Airtel Africa has stopped investing in tower infrastructure in Kenya and other markets in the continent, intending to sell most of its existing assets.

The International Finance Corporation (IFC), which is funding the telco, says the company is now reducing ownership of infrastructure in favour of leasing .

"Airtel Africa is focusing on an asset-light business model and has divested most of its tower portfolio. It is in the final stages of divesting majority of its remaining tower portfolio to tower companies," IFC said in its investment disclosures.

Airtel Africa currently engages independent telecommunications tower companies to expand its network by either leasing space on their existing infrastructure, or contracting them to erect towers specific to Airtel's network coverage needs. In this second case, the telco becomes the "anchor tenant."

Last Friday, Airtel Africa closed the sale of its telecommunications tower company in Malawi to Helios Tower for $54.7 million. Helios Towers said it entered into a 12-year service agreement on the acquired assets with Airtel Africa. The agreement is expected to deliver revenue of $23 million and adjusted earnings before interest, tax, depreciation, and amortization of \$8 million in its first full year of ownership of the tower company.

In January this year, Airtel Africa confirmed the first closing of the transaction to sell its telecoms tower assets in Tanzania for $176.1 million. The sale was to a joint venture company (the Purchaser) owned by subsidiary of SBA Communications Corporation, as majority owner, and by Paradigm Infrastructure Limited.

Under the transaction's terms, Airtel Africa's subsidiary in Tanzania will continue to develop, maintain and operate its equipment on the towers under separate lease arrangements, largely made in local currencies, with the Purchaser.

Following the first closing, approximately $159 million of the proceeds has now been paid, with the balance payable in instalments once completion of the transfer of remaining towers to the Purchaser is done.

Airtel Africa currently maintains a limited number of strategic tower sites (approximately 2,500) across its business, with no foreseeable plans to materially expand its owned towers portfolio.

The telco says further growth is anticipated through 60 committed build-to-suits over the next three years and a colocation lease-up.

Helios Towers has announced it has closed the acquisition of Airtel Africa's passive infrastructure company in Malawi, adding 723 sites to its portfolio. The gross consideration for the transaction will be USD 55 million, of which 20 percent is funded by Old Mutual Infrastructure Investment Trust Fund, representing a local Malawian shareholding of 20 percent, in line with local telecoms infrastructure licence requirements.

Helios Towers and Airtel Africa have also entered a twelve-year service agreement on the acquired assets, which are expected to deliver revenues of USD 23 million and adjusted EBITDA of USD 8 million in the first full year of ownership. More growth is anticipated through 60 committed build-to-suits over the next three years and colocation lease-up.

TD

Under the terms of the transaction, Airtel Malawi will continue to develop, maintain and operate its equipment on the towers under separate lease arrangements, largely made in local currencies, with the purchaser.

 HD Airtel says readying for metaverse opportunity in India with 5G

Bharti Airtel, India's second largest telecom operator, is preparing to tap the metaverse opportunity with its upcoming 5G network and will get into "deeper" partnerships with content providers and over-the-top players to enable several use cases, a top official said. "5G will be enabling the metaverse, which requires a lot of data. Metaverse will need much higher speeds and needs to be closer to the edge content. Telcos will play a major role. It could be used for sports events, gaming or even business meetings," Randeep Sekhon, chief technology officer at Bharti Airtel, told ET. He said metaverse as a concept won't succeed without "deeper" partnerships with telecom operators. "In some areas, content needs to be hosted on our data centres beyond the high-speed connectivity that our 5G will bring.

So, it won't be successful without partnerships. "Metaverse is a new-age business in a virtual world, powered by virtual reality, augmented reality and blockchain technologies where people can play, work and shop across different platforms using digital tools and augmented reality (AR) headsets. The gaming ecosystem, in particular, is set to gain from metaverse push. The metaverse is being considered in future iterations of the internet. The initial phase of 5G services will see some "metaverse" use cases, especially in the B2C or consumer space, Sekhon said, adding that there will be strong use cases in the enterprise space as well, going forward. "Everybody is building it, be it Facebook or Microsoft. What we are demonstrating today is probably an early version and it will get better. The ecosystem is still building," Sekhon said. He added metaverse will take a lot of processing of data which will be done at the edge and not on consumer devices. "That's the only domain where telcos will have to play because nobody else can build so many edge data centres, which we already have". Using immersive video technologies over its high speed 5G test network, Airtel recreated the in-stadia experience of Kapil Dev's famous 175 not out vs Zimbabwe during the 1983 Cricket World Cup. A special 175 Replayed video, in 4K mode, brought key moments from the match to life, which had no video footage due to a strike by TV technicians. Airtel conducted the demonstration at its Network Experience Centre in Manesar (Gurugram) using Ericsson 5G Radio in NSA mode over 3500 MHz band test spectrum. Reliance Jio and Vodafone Idea are also preparing to join the metaverse bandwagon. Jio Platforms (JPL) is preparing for its own metaverse and Web 3.0 play and recently invested $15 million in Silicon Valley-based deep tech startup Two Platforms Inc. for a 25% equity stake. Vodafone Idea had joined hands with the United Kingdom-based technology company, Mobile Streams Plc, to launch gaming, eSports, and metaverse services in the first quarter of 2022.

With a 5G launch round the corner, Bharti Airtel on Thursday showcased its high-speed, low latency capabilities for video entertainment. Using its 5G test network, the operator recreated the in-stadia experience of Kapil Dev's famous 175 not out vs Zimbabwe, during the 1983 Cricket World Cup.

A special 175 replayed video, in 4K mode, brought to key moments from the match to life, which had no video footage due to a strike by TV technicians.

With speeds of over 1 Gbps and latency of under 20 ms, more than 50 concurrent users had a personalized 4K video experience of the match on 5G smartphones, with real-time access to multiple camera angles, 360-degree in-stadia view, shot analysis and stats. During the session, users also had 5G powered hologram interactions with Kapil Dev.

Randeep Sekhon, CTO, Bharti Airtel, said: "The gigabit speeds and millisecond latency of 5G will transform the way we consume entertainment. With 5G based holograms, we will be able to transport virtual avatars to any location and this will be a game-changer for meetings and conferences, live news and will have so many other use cases. Airtel is fully prepared for 5G in this emerging digital world and is building a solid pipeline of innovative use cases for India."

Airtel conducted the demonstration at its network experience centre in Manesar (Gurugram) using Ericsson 5G radio over 3500 MHz band test spectrum allotted by the department of telecom.

Bharti Airtel's Africa arm plans to raise $194 million via debt from International Finance Corporation (IFC), the private sector lending arm of the World Bank, to fund capex needs of key subsidiaries and refinance existing loans. The debt financing package for Airtel Africa Plc will comprise a direct $150 million investment from Washington-based IFC and an additional $44 million in mobilisation from its Managed Co-Lending Portfolio Program (MCP). In a disclosure on its website, IFC said the proposed investment is to support Airtel Africa's network investment across seven subsidiaries as well as refinancing its existing loans. "IFC will support the (Airtel Africa) project with a debt package of upto $150 million from its own account and upto $44 million in mobilisation from MCP funds," the World Bank's private sector arm said. Airtel Africa did not respond to ET's queries as of press time.

TD

The IFC funding will support Airtel Africa's capex and loan refinancing needs in seven key markets -- Kenya, Chad, Democratic Republic of Congo, Madagascar, Niger, Republic of Congo and Zambia. Bharti's Africa unit, which has seen a strong business resurgence in recent years, was made part of the FTSE 100 Index in end-January. The company completed its first full year of profitability in FY18, marking a turnaround from previous years when losses had mounted every quarter, dragging down consolidated numbers and had even cast a doubt on Bharti's strategy of entering into the continent back in 2010. Airtel Africa Plc was listed on London Stock Exchange in late-June 2019. Last year, Airtel Africa had closed a string of deals, aggregating $500 million, as part of its continued pursuit of strategic asset monetisation and investment opportunities, especially as it aims to explore a potential listing of its mobile money business within the next three-to-four years. Back in July 2021, Airtel's Africa arm had inked a deal to sell roughly a 7.5% stake in its mobile money unit to Qatar Holding LLC, an affiliate of Qatar Investment Authority (QIA) Qatar Investment Authority (QIA), for around $200 million. The QIA deal, in fact, had come a few months after it had closed a similar transaction to sell roughly a 3.75% stake in its mobile money unit to global payment processor Mastercard Inc for $100 million. And before the Mastercard deal, Airtel Africa had sold a 7.5% stake in its mobile money business to US private equity firm TPG for $200 million. Airtel's Africa business reported a $180 million net profit in the fiscal third quarter, a 54% on-year jump, but down 6.25% sequentially due to higher finance costs, even as customer additions along with data and mobile money business revenue grew. Its revenue for the quarter to December rose 18% on-year and 5.1% sequentially to $1.219 billion.

Bharti Airtel's Africa arm plans to raise $194 million via debt from International Finance Corporation (IFC), the private sector lending arm of the World Bank, to fund capex needs of key subsidiaries and refinance existing loans. The debt financing package for Airtel Africa Plc will comprise a direct $150 million investment from Washington-based IFC and an additional $44 million in mobilisation from its Managed Co-Lending Portfolio Program (MCP). In a disclosure on its website, IFC said the proposed investment is to support Airtel Africa's network investment across seven subsidiaries as well as refinancing its existing loans. "IFC will support the (Airtel Africa) project with a debt package of upto $150 million from its own account and upto $44 million in mobilisation from MCP funds," the World Bank's private sector arm said. Airtel Africa did not respond to ET's queries as of press time.

TD

The IFC funding will support Airtel Africa's capex and loan refinancing needs in seven key markets -- Kenya, Chad, Democratic Republic of Congo, Madagascar, Niger, Republic of Congo and Zambia. Bharti's Africa unit, which has seen a strong business resurgence in recent years, was made part of the FTSE 100 Index in end-January. The company completed its first full year of profitability in FY18, marking a turnaround from previous years when losses had mounted every quarter, dragging down consolidated numbers and had even cast a doubt on Bharti's strategy of entering into the continent back in 2010. Airtel Africa Plc was listed on London Stock Exchange in late-June 2019. Last year, Airtel Africa had closed a string of deals, aggregating $500 million, as part of its continued pursuit of strategic asset monetisation and investment opportunities, especially as it aims to explore a potential listing of its mobile money business within the next three-to-four years. Back in July 2021, Airtel's Africa arm had inked a deal to sell roughly a 7.5% stake in its mobile money unit to Qatar Holding LLC, an affiliate of Qatar Investment Authority (QIA) Qatar Investment Authority (QIA), for around $200 million. The QIA deal, in fact, had come a few months after it had closed a similar transaction to sell roughly a 3.75% stake in its mobile money unit to global payment processor Mastercard Inc for $100 million. And before the Mastercard deal, Airtel Africa had sold a 7.5% stake in its mobile money business to US private equity firm TPG for $200 million. Airtel's Africa business reported a $180 million net profit in the fiscal third quarter, a 54% on-year jump, but down 6.25% sequentially due to higher finance costs, even as customer additions along with data and mobile money business revenue grew. Its revenue for the quarter to December rose 18% on-year and 5.1% sequentially to $1.219 billion.

Voting advisory firm liAS has recommended a 'for' vote on the resolution floated by Vodafone Idea (VIL) to raise ~4,500 crore from its promoters.

"The equity raise gives the company funds required to meet its payment obligations as well as repay its dues and meet its working capital requirements," liAS has said in a note.

TD

VIL plans to issue 3.38 billion new shares at ~13.3 apiece to its promoters Aditya Birla Group (through Oriana Investments) and Vodafone Group (through Euro Pacific Securities and Prime Metals). The issue price is 25 per cent higher than VIL's Monday's closing price of ~10.07.

liAS said the issue price is in accordance with the formula prescribed in Sebi's ICDR Regulations (Issue of Capital and Disclosure Requirements). The rule says the issue price should be the higher of 90-day volume weighted average and 10-day volume weighted average.

About 40 per cent of the ~4,500 crore will be used for making payments to Indus Towers, an associate company that provides passive infrastructure services on a co-sharing basis.

TD

Bharti Airtel's African unit is having something of a resurgence in recent years. Back in the summer of 2019, Airtel Africa's initial public offering (IPO) on the London Stock Exchange was something of a disaster, raising just $750 million and seeing stock prices fall over 16% on day one. At the time, investors were sceptical about the prospects of telecom carriers in emerging markets, fears that were borne out over the next couple of years when profit fell in almost every quarter the following year. However, 2020 saw the unit stage a turnaround, posting a 72% jump in pre-tax profit and seeing subscribers throughout the continent surge. This turnaround came, in no small part, due to a strategic shift from the business, looking to consolidate and monetise its passive assets, as well as benefiting from the strong performance of its mobile money platform. Last year, Mastercard announced that it would invest $100 million in Airtel Africa's mobile money operations, valuing the business at $2.65 billion. In the same year, Airtel also agreed to sell a 7.5% stake in the unit to Qatar Holding LLC, an affiliate of Qatar Investment Authority, for around $200 million. As part of Airtel's broader plan to reduce its roughly $4 billion in debt, Airtel Africa has been selling its mobile towers across the continent to various investors. At the start of the year, the company closed a deal worth $176 million, selling its towers in Tanzania to a joint venture from SBA Communications Corp and Paradigm Infrastructure Ltd. It also has plans to sell its towers in both Chad and Gabon to Helios Towers, but the closure of this deal has been delayed due to Helios waiting to obtain the relevant passive infrastructure licence; the Memorandum of Understanding for the sale was first signed in February last year and was renewed last month. Now, the company is seeking to raise an additional $194 million for capex purposes from the IFC, the private sector lending arm of the World Bank. "IFC will support the (Airtel Africa) project with a debt package of up to $150 million from its own account and up to $44 million in mobilisation from MCP funds," said the IFC in a statement. The funding will support ongoing network investment and loan restructuring in Kenya, Chad, Democratic Republic of Congo, Madagascar, Niger, Republic of Congo, and Zambia. The company currently has over 100 million customers in 14 African markets. Indian telecom major Bharti Airtel is set to bring in another investor on board for its Africa arm after pulling in half a billion dollars last year from a clutch of international investors for its African mobile money business.

Airtel Africa plc had last year raised funding from Qatar Investment Authority (QIA) Qatar Investment Authority (QIA), TPG's Rise Fund and Mastercard. It is now in talks with International Finance Corporation (IFC), the private-sector investment arm of the World Bank, to mop up as much $194 million in debt capital.

TD

Airtel Africa, an integrated mobile network operator in 14 countries across Sub-Saharan Africa, may get up to $150 million from IFC's own account and up to $44 million from IFC's managed co-lending portfolio program.

The money will help Airtel Africa refinance its existing loans and support its operations and investments across units in Chad, Democratic Republic of Congo, Kenya, Madagascar, Niger, Republic of Congo and Zambia.

Airtel Africa offers an integrated suite of telecommunications solutions to its subscribers, including mobile voice and data services as well as mobile money services. It is a public company incorporated in the UK and is listed on the London Stock Exchange and on Nigerian Stock Exchange.

Bharti Airtel, an Indian telecommunication company with operations in 17 countries, is a majority shareholder with around 56% shareholding in the firm.

Unlocking money

This comes even as Airtel Africa is looking at other value unlocking exercise including a potential listing of the mobile money business within the next three years.

Last July, Airtel Africa said it signed an agreement with QIA, the sovereign wealth fund of the Gulf nation, to sell shares worth $200 million in Airtel Mobile Commerce BV, the holding company for several of its mobile money operations.

Airtel Money is available across the group's 14 countries of operation in Africa. However, in Nigeria the group offers Airtel Money services through a partnership with a local bank and has applied for its own mobile banking licence.

The transaction valued Airtel Mobile at $2.65 billion on a cash- and debt-free basis. This is the same valuation at which TPG's Rise Fund and Mastercard had agreed to invest in Airtel Mobile earlier last year.

QIA is likely to own around 7.5% stake in Airtel Mobile, the same as TPG.

The proceeds from the transaction will be used to reduce group debt and invest in network and sales infrastructure in the respective operating countries.

Airtel Africa offers mobile money services under the Airtel Money brand. It offers mobile wallet deposit and withdrawals, merchant and commercial payments, benefits transfers, loans and savings, virtual credit card and international money transfers.

The mobile money business generated revenue of $124 million with EBITDA of $60 million for the quarter ended June 30, 2021. Revenue growth was pegged at 53.7% in constant currency, largely driven by 24.6% growth in the customer base to 23.1 million, and 25.4% rise in average revenue per user. The growth in transaction value was 64.4% (constant currency) to $14.7 billion.

HD Mobile towers firm Helios banks on Africa's young population

Africa's demand for mobile connections is central to Helios Towers growth plans.

Telecomtower infrastructure company Helios Towers, which entered the SA market around three years ago, is banking on the growth of mobile connectivity in Africa to drive its growth plans.

TD

The UK-based company formed a partnership with Vumatel to build wireless and fixed-line infrastructure in South Africa in 2019.

On Thursday, the entity said its 8% jump in revenue in the 2021 financial year to $449.1 million (R6.6 billion) was in part boosted by the acquisition of tower portfolios in Senegal and Madagascar.

The company aims to close the acquisition of Airtel Africa's passive infrastructure operating companies in Madagascar and Malawi during the 2022 financial year.

CEO Kash Pandya said the Malawi transaction was likely to close in the next two weeks.

Helios Towers owns and operates telecommunication tower sites in Tanzania, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Congo Brazzaville, Ghana, South Africa, Senegal, and Madagascar.

The company cited current growth levels among South Africa's major network providers, Vodacom and MTN, including their plans to invest in infrastructure development, as indicators of growth in the market.

"Our markets are engines of growth, particularly in the telecoms sector. The dynamics of our markets across Africa and the Middle East are significantly rising population, urbanisation, [and] a very young population, which drives demand in mobile services - particularly data and large GDP growth. You can combine that with low mobile penetration," said Tom Greenwood, the company's CEO-designate.

Greenwood's forecast suggests that there will be 63 million new mobile connections over the next five years across Helios markets.

The new connections drive the need for more mobile tenants, as companies expand their networks for data services.

"All of this drives growth; we are very excited about the organic growth potential as we look over the next five years and beyond," said Greenwood.

During the 2021 financial year, Helio increased its number of its sites by a record 204 year-on-year to 9 560.

Cash generated from operations decreased by 7% to $195.9 million.
